For comprehensive and customized home care for beloved seniors, the community is encouraged to get in touch with Visiting Angels Newington, a home care organization that delivers support families can count on.

Located at 66 Cedar St., each Visiting Angels agency is a franchise that is independently owned and operated. They provide home care services in Newington, Hartford, Farmington, West Hartford and the surrounding areas.

Established in 1998, caregivers have been devoted to supporting loved ones as they age at home. The agency understands that when people are looking for the best senior home care services for aging loved ones, they are looking for highly qualified, professional, and loving senior care providers who will not only provide assistance with daily tasks, but also offer companionship, comfort, and compassion.

Visiting Angels can offer a wide variety of home care services in the local areas, ranging from meal preparation and medication reminders to respite care and specialized care for seniors who need a bit more help on a daily basis. They also offer hourly care, overnight care and 24-hour care in their service locations.

At its Newington location, the agency said they strive to make sure the clients and their families are comfortable with every care decision they make at every stage of the process.

“As a licensed and bonded agency, each of our caregivers in Newington are chosen based on their prior experience in senior home care, their attention to detail, and their empathetic approach to supporting others,” said the agency. “We select your loved one’s caregiver based on who we think is ideally equipped to deliver their care plan.”

No two families are exactly alike, which is why Visiting Angels Newington developed a series of Life Care Navigation senior care programs which includes many options to meet a wide range of needs, including companion care, personal care, a ready-set-go home program that provides post-hospitalization care, social care and non-medical services for those with memory loss, terminal illness or nearing end of life.

“Regardless of the type of care your loved one needs, we will always do our best to help them maintain their independence and remain healthy and happy at home,” said the agency. “Our home care agency experts will closely work with your family to ensure you are satisfied with the services provided.”

The agency has all the necessary licenses and insurance to provide hands-on assistance and take full responsibility for all caregivers. This way, the families can fully focus on caring for their loved ones.
